

4 Objectives Keep Us Anchored in Our Vision

Meeting Physical Needs

Supplying adequate food, shelter and basic medical care helps protect at-risk children from being sold.

Meeting Educational Needs

Preparing children for honest, sustained work greatly lessens the financial allure and likelihood of the sex trade.

Meeting Emotional Needs

Providing the loving care of concerned, responsible adults gives children stability and a healthy vision of themselves.

Meeting Spiritual Needs

Introducing children to the life-changing love of God provides self-worth, confidence and hope!

What is Remember Nhu?

Remember Nhu is a global nonprofit with a mission of Ending Child Sex Slavery Through Prevention. We ask the question: Why wait until after a child has been abused to help or intervene? Why not stop it before it occurs?

Not only do we educate at-risk youth populations on the dangers of trafficking and how to stay safe—we also provide home environments where individual children's physical, educational, emotional, and spiritual needs can be met. By receiving love and care through Foster Families, Prevention Homes, Family Restoration and Education Programs, at-risk children can live safely, go to school and follow their dreams.*

Thanks to the support of people like you, we have effectively prevented over 15,000 children from being sold in 20 countries, and taught preventive education to over 9,000 children.

Story Behind Our Name

Nhu was 12 years old when her grandmother sold her to pay the interest on money borrowed to buy groceries.

When Carl Ralston heard Nhu's story, he believed God put on his heart, "Remember Nhu." One week later Carl dedicated his life to finding Nhu and doing whatever he could to prevent any other child from being abused in such a way. Nhu is now a joyful, healthy young lady whose life is dedicated to sharing her story. Today, she lives happily in America with her loving husband, Gabriel, and their daughter Catalina.

They Need Your Help

Too many of the world's children are vulnerable, orphaned, abandoned, or alone. Our children are identified by local members of their community, school staff, social workers, police and by children already living in our homes. They are either orphaned or their previous caretakers are in crisis from poverty and other risk factors.

If we identify vulnerable children before the "bad guys" do, we can help them get to safety or live safely before they are discovered and exploited. We can educate at-risk youth on daily safety practices and social refusal skills, or even provide a loving home where the child can grow up safe, go to school and dream of a brighter future. Long-term, by decreasing the "supply" of at-risk children from the global sex trade market, we can deteriorate the supply & demand of this awful industry through the power of prevention.

1.2 million children are trafficked for sex each year. But each one of us can do something to prevent it!

Be the change you want to see: Join a movement of people who are dreaming of a better world. Sponsor a child. Join Heroes of Hope, our monthly giving program. Volunteer. Pray. Ask your company or church to sponsor a home.

Help keep A GENERATION SAFE in America: We are educating youth and teens in the U.S. through A Gen Safe. This education initiative prevents exploitation in America by raising awareness with Ages 10-17 through word-of-mouth media and school curriculum.
